GRAVEST MEASURES NEEDED, SAYS LLOYD-GEORGE

BIRCH OIL SUES COUNTY, CLAIM ASSESSMENT TOO HIGH

Instead of $645,120, Alleges Property Valued at Only $30,240 In March

WONDER WELL OWNER IS THE PLAINTIFF

Says Production and Comparison With Other Property In Its Favor

Late this afternoon there was filed here an action in which the Birch Oil Co. sues Orange County to compel the reduction of the oil company's assessment from $645,120. Instead of paying $19,000 a year taxes, the company seeks a reduction that will give it total taxes of $1,060.

When County Assessor James Sleeper placed an assessment on the 20.16 acres above Brea upon which the famous Birch well is located, A. Otis Birch and his attorney went before the Board of Supervisors and protested. Some of the records of that hearing are set forth in the complaint filed today by Attorneys G. H. Woodruff and Clyde Shoemaker.

It is asserted that the entire wells on the property are producing but 39,000 barrels a month. It is declared that in comparison with the assessments of adjoining properties, the Birch assessment is too high.

In the hearing before the county board last July, the county assessor's figures were sustained.

MASS MEETING TO BE HELD IN L. A. AS PROTEST AGAINST WAR

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—A mass meeting to protest against the United States entering the European war without the question being submitted to the people of the nation, will be held at the Shrine Auditorium Sunday evening. Capt. H. Z. Osborne will preside and Max Soche, editor of Germania and president of the Southern California German-American Alliance, will be one of the speakers.

CARRANZISTAS ROUTED BY VILLISTAS NEAR NEW MEXICO BORDER

EL PASO, Feb. 23.—A force of Carranzistas under Colonel Chapa were defeated by Villistas under General Salazar after battling several hours near Boca Grande, just south of New Mexico, according to advices here today.

SLAYER SUSPECT IN L. A. IS BOUND OVER

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—"Tom Sharkey," suspected of killing the constable of Brawley and robbing the San Jacinto postoffice was today bound over on a charge of taking explosives into a public building.

THEODORE H. HITTELL, CAL. HISTORIAN, DEAD

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—Theodore H. Hittell, lawyer, and regarded as the leading California historian, is dead today, aged 87. He resided in California for sixty years.

TRACTORS SUPPLANT HORSES IN ORCHARDS OF WHITTIER FARMERS

WHITTIER, Feb. 23.—The latest raid to retire man's faithful burden bearers is seen in the tendency to use small orchard tractors for cultivating the orange, lemon and walnut groves in this district.

Following a two days' demonstration of a small tractor of the orchard type here last week, the local implement concern reports the sale of nine of these little giants, which easily did the work of four or more horses.

There seems to be a strong demand for a little tractor that can turn in less than its own length, is reasonable in price, and will do the work—one that is low, and that can get close in to the tree and under the tree. That the ranchers want such a machine and are willing to pay for it is fully demonstrated by the number of sales just made in this one community.

Ban On Exportation Of Staple Foods Is Sought By Senator

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—In a final attempt to force through a food embargo, Senator Martine today introduced a resolution prohibiting the exportation of staple food products.

Senator Lewis introduced a revenue bill amendment, empowering the President to seize foodstuffs "wrongfully held for unjust increases in prices" in violation of anti-trust laws.

The Lewis amendment provides that foods confiscated be immediately sold by the government "to those whose necessities are first to be relieved." Prices for resale are to be fixed by the government and sales are to be limited to the actual needs of each purchaser.

Chairman Denman of the new federal shipping board today conferred with President Wilson on the latter's opinion for a provisional coastwise fleet to bring wheat east from the Pacific Coast, where it is being held owing to lack of railroad facilities.

ENTIRE GOVERNMENT ACTS IN FOOD CRISIS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The United States government today—through President Wilson to Congress—turned its hands to the national food problem.

The President will put the entire situation before his cabinet. He is expected to take some definite steps to force an appropriation for an investigation of prices through this session of Congress.

Regardless of the fact that the fight for funds has been lost in the house committee, the appropriation will be sought in the senate and if it fails to receive attention there, will be taken to the floor of the house, Secretary of Agriculture Houston declared today.

In spite of the food riots and other spectacular evidences of acute suffering, as a result of food shortages, officials here scoffed at reports of a possible embargo on all food shipments. Some intimated that perhaps some of the clamors for food might be as much due to systematic inciting of foreign born women in poor districts of the large cities as to actual threatened starvation.

Congress expected to take definite action before adjournment.

Representative Meyer London, New York, has introduced a bill asking for an appropriation of $5,000,000 with which to buy food to be resold at "reasonable prices" to the poor; and a combination of senators is meeting in secret, preparatory to asking for $100,000,000 for the same purpose.

Car Tie-Up Near Break

The car tie-up in the opinion of the interstate commerce commission and railroads was at the breaking point today. Railroads took advantage of the holiday yesterday and clearing weather to rush great strings of empty freight cars west at express train speed.

These will immediately be filled with the food supplies that have been piling up in the middle west, because of the car shortage, and some relief in eastern markets is predicted when these shipments roll in. The number of cars involved in the tie-up on February 10 totaled 165,279. While the food situation threatens, drastic disturbances in the east, the gas and coal shortage is no less serious in the west.

The committee on car service of the American Railways Association was unable in the absence of reports, today, to say what steps will be taken to relieve this condition, which may cause a serious interruption of service, light, heat and power companies in eighteen towns and cities in the middle west.

Still a Question In view of the tenseness of the situation, officials asserted, congress could not adjourn without taking some action on the legislation that has been laid before it. Whether this will be in the form of funds for temporary relief or action on exports and giving the interstate commerce commission oil for its investigatory machinery, is still a question.

CHICAGO POOR SUFFER AS FOOD SOARS

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Foodstuffs continue a steady upward trend and there was no indication this evening of the price increase stopping.

Rabbits and fish are being confiscated by game wardens and distributed to the needy.

Conditions in the tenement districts are regarded as critical. Suffering is acute and urgent measures are being taken by the city and charities associations.

Many poor families have not tasted sugar or milk for weeks and there are scores of malnutrition cases in the hospitals.

Food Rioting in Gotham Continues As Solons Act

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Continued food rioting of a sporadic nature continued today in New York as the height of the Sabbath food buying among Jewish people was reported. A mass meeting was scheduled for Rutgers Square, following which women expected to go en masse to a meeting of the board of estimate, where it was expected Mayor Mitchell would make some move to relieve conditions.

Eyes also were turned toward Albany, where Governor Whitman is giving the food situation his attention. He has put the stamp of approval on a bill which would make discretionary the establishment of a food dictator for the state. Tammany has countered this bill with one which would appropriate $25,000,000 for public market terminals in cities.

Leaders appearing before the board of estimates are expected to demand that the mayor ask $1,000,000 to open municipal stores; that another $1,000,000 be turned over for school luncheons and that steps be taken to have the government take over railway systems for food transportation. Other demands will be that food shipments be given precedence over all others, that the city seek a commission to regulate foodstuffs and that a demand be made on the Legislature that will give blanket power to the state to relieve the situation.

Governor Whitman, in a statement at Albany, said he believed the present situation to be the worst in the history of the state and declared he intended to take steps necessary to give relief.

Relief, it is hoped, may be found in the immediate passage of the food and market bill now before the Legislature. This hope lies in an emergency clause, which says:

"In case of an emergency creating or threatening to create a scarcity of food within the state the commission is empowered to take such measures to secure relief as the commission may deem desirable."

East Outbids West For Coast Produce, S.F. Word

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—The East is outbidding the West for western produce, and as a result prices of all foodstuffs were on the climb today.

Eggs today are retailing for 40 cents a dozen. A few days ago they were 35 cents.

But they are climbing higher, because eastern wholesalers will pay 40 cents a dozen for them in carload and retail them in New York City for 60 cents.

Butter costs 45 cents a pound retail. Last year it was 35 cents. Carloads of it are going East every day to meet the demands of people who will pay as high as 60 cents a pound retail.

Garden truck of every kind is 100 per cent higher than last year. Small relief is promised from early gardens in the Imperial valley and other early California sections. This early produce is gobbled up by the East at fancy prices, leaving none for the West.

Nearly two months ago new potatoes (early 1917 crop) could be bought at retail for five cents a pound in San Francisco. Now they can't be had at any price, and if they could, they would probably be worn for watch charms.

Meanwhile, George Shima, Japanese potato king, is making from $3000 to $5000 a day from his spuds, and has just contracted for the farming of 25,000 acres of delta land this year. Large

MANY BIG BILLS DOOMED TO BE LOST PRIOR TO ADJOURNMENT

Night Sessions and Frantic Speed-up Measures Fail to Remedy Matters

LEAD ALL CONGRESS STORY . . . L. WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—President Wilson today issued a proclamation calling for an extra session of the Senate to confirm the cabinet and inaugurate Vice President Marshall. The United States may also press the ratification of the Colombian Treaty then.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—A Republican filibuster, quietly started this afternoon is causing grave fear in both houses that an extra session may be unavoidable.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—With the legislative channels congested to choking, it becomes apparent today that despite night sessions and frantic speed-up measures, a formidable group of important bills and resolutions would be lost in the shuffle prior to adjournment of Congress March 4. Time only now remains for rushing through the most imperative appropriations for the running expenses of the government and a limited number of measures, which the administration deems absolutely essential.

Among the more important measures which seem certain of failure are:

Universal military training. Ratification of the Colombian treaty. Woman suffrage constitutional amendment.

National prohibition constitutional amendment.

Flood control legislation.

Water power bills.

Oil Lands Bill Doomed

Naval oil lands urged by the navy to insure an adequate supply of oil for the new oil-burning battleships.

Confirmation of Dr. Cary Grayson, President Wilson's personal physician, as rear admiral.

Rivers and harbors bill, attacked as "pork."

(A substitute bill practically halving the original appropriation, probably will be rushed through.)

Owen resolution, depriving the supreme court of power to declare legislation unconstitutional.

Borah resolution re-affirming the Monroe doctrine.

Fish hatcheries bill, providing hatcheries in California, Maryland or Virginia, Oregon, or Washington; Texas, Oklahoma, Illinois, Michigan, Idaho, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Delaware or New Jersey and Minnesota.

A number of resolutions bearing on the international situation appear to have been consigned permanently to the "stygian depths committee."

Among these are:

Down La Follette Bill

La Follette resolution against the arming of United States merchantmen in time of peace.

The Saulsbury resolutions, opening United States ports to allied warships.

The Cummins amendment for Senate consideration of the President's international stand and others.

In the ten remaining legislative days, the following appropriation bills, according to present schedule, will be rushed through unless unexpected opposition develops, necessitating a compromise or abandonment:

Army, navy, sundry civil, Indian legislation, legislative and judicial legislation and military academy, agricultural, District of Columbia, Danish West Indies, Porto Rico and post-office.

The administration's $450,000 revenue bill will go through.

L. A. POLICE SEEK MAN WHO TOOK $1200 MEAT TO BEAT LIVING COST

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—Someone has discovered a most effective way to beat the high cost of living here, but the police are seeking him today. Smoked meats valued at $1200 were taken from the warehouse of a local meat concern, and hauled away in a motor truck, according to the report to headquarters.

BERNSTORFF'S LINER MOVES TO NEW PIER

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 23.—The Frederick VIII liner is lying at a railway pier here, having been moved down the harbor from Bedford basin. The pier is in charge of authorities. The object of the removal has not been stated, but it is thought likely it indicates examination of the ship's cargo.

ENGLAND'S IMPORTS CUT AS RESULT OF TONNAGE SCARCITY

LONDON, Feb. 23.—"Gravest measures are necessary, otherwise there will be disaster," Premier Lloyd-George declared in Commons today, discussing the shortage of British tonnage.

"There is a shortage of tonnage not only for ordinary needs, but for the military necessities, as well," he declared. "More than a million tons of British shipping has been assigned to France as its share. The gravest measures are necessary, otherwise there will be disaster."

The premier addressed a specially called meeting of the House of Commons on the question of restrictions of imports. His speech had been originally set for Tuesday, but was postponed because, it was announced, interchanges between England and her allies on the subject matter had not been completed.

The premier asserted that "enormous sacrifices" will be required from the British people to achieve a victory. Such sacrifices, he held, would "test the national grit."

"The government hopes to deal effectively with the submarine question," he continued, "but it follows that we cannot rest on this hope. There is no sure means to victory without hunting submarines from the deep.

"We must find ships to bear iron ore at all costs," the premier asserted.

Continuing, Lloyd-George proposed to dispense with all non-essential imports, including timber.

He announced a minimum wage of 25 shillings weekly to agricultural laborers and declared that a guarantee of certain minimum prices, to be in force for some years, must be made to farmers.

In addition to timber, Lloyd-George announced that importations of tomatoes and fruits would be prohibited.

All imported luxuries are banned, including tea, coffee, cocoa, apples and tomatoes. The importation of timber also is prohibited.

The importation of canned salmon, print paper, citrus fruits and nuts is limited.

Erewhing is limited so that more grain will be available for food.

Farmers and laborers are to be under the Board of Agriculture, which may fix a minimum wage and prices on food stuff.

Premier Lloyd-George said that England is furnishing much tonnage to Italy and France.

SCORES OF SINN FEINERS SEIZED

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Nearly fifty arrests of Sinn Fein sympathizers in various parts of Ireland were reported in Dublin dispatches today. The only information obtainable as to the cause of the arrests was that they were made under the defense of the realm act.

Among those arrested are: Darrell Giggis, an author; J. J. Kelly, vice president of the Gaelic League; J. T. O'Kelly, general secretary of the Gaelic League, at Dublin; John O'Hurley, a Gaelic League organizer; Dr. Patrick McCartan, and others prominent in the Gaelic League.

REDONDO HIGH SENIOR MEN DABBLE JUNIORS' FACES WITH IODINE

REDONDO BEACH, Feb. 23.—The seniors of the local high school are in "hot water" as a result of a scrap between the seniors and juniors.

Some of the seniors grabbed a few junior men and forced them to wear the sign of the senior "16" on their forehead. This was not what started the trouble, but the fact that the freshmen were made with iodine and will not wash out. A general "rough house" on the campus followed, and several of the smaller boys were hurt.

Prof. A. C. Langworthy and several members of the faculty succeeded in stopping the fight. No one has been suspended as yet. Prof. Langworthy announced that the feeling between the two classes has quieted since the fray.

D. M. LINNARD IS TO BE FAIRMONT HOTEL MANAGER AT BAY CITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—D. M. Linnard, now manager of three Pasadena hotels, will become manager of the Fairmont hotel in San Francisco April 30. This announcement was made today following the closing of a lease by Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, owner, to the Palace Hotel Company, for the Fairmont building. The Palace company will pay $65,000 a year for the Fairmont for a period of ten years, and in addition will pay all taxes, maintenance, insurance and incidental expenses.

BUILDING FOR STATE OIL EXPERTS TO BE BUILT AT COALINGA

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 23.—The state advisory board has decided to construct a building at Coalinga for the State Mining Bureau for use in connection with the bureau's activity in supervising the oil fields industry.

FLOOD GOES DOWN

WATSONVILLE, Cal., Feb. 23.—The sudden flood which covered more than half of Watsonville and vicinity yesterday subsided rapidly today. By tonight it is believed the Pajaro river will again be within its banks.

WILSON DELAYS SUPPLYING OF GUNS TO ARM TRADE SHIPS

American Line Request Will Not Be Complied With At Present

CANNON TO BE USED ON GREAT JAP LINE

Kaiser Regrets Submarining Of Swedish Steamer and Promises Indemnity

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—President Wilson today submitted the army staff's universal training bill to the House. It calls youths of 19 years for eleven months' training and two weeks' training in their 20 and 21 years. These youths will be continued in reserve until they become 45 years old, the younger men comprising the first of the second reserves.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Robert Haddon, an American missionary, was killed when the French liner Athos was submarined east of Malta Saturday, according to advices to the state department today.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—There is today no indication that the government has any immediate intention of complying with a request made by the American line for guns to arm its merchantmen. It has been learned that the administration feels that the danger of risking a possibility of an international complication to some gunner is too great.

TOKYO, Feb. 23.—The Nippon Yusen Kaisha, the largest Japanese steamship line, has decided to arm all its merchantmen going to American and European ports, it was today announced.

KAISER REGRETS SINKING SWEDISH STEAMER

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 23.—The German minister today informed Sweden that the submarining of the Swedish steamer Edde was a "mistake by a German commander." The minister expressed Germany's formal regret and promised indemnity.

ANOTHER BRITISH SHIP IS TORPEDOED

LONDON, Feb. 23.—The British steamer Wampfield has been sunk.

FREIGHTER ORLEANS IS SAFE, BELIEVE OWNERS

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The freighter Orleans, one of the first American ships to defy Germany's submarine order, is expected to reach Bordeaux tonight or tomorrow.

Word received at the offices of the Oriental Navigation Company, owners of the ship here, convinced the officials that she has made her voyage in safety.

Alberta Dodores, managing director of the line in Paris, cabled President Philip de Ronde that he was leaving Paris for Bordeaux to greet the Orleans.

JOE STECHER DEFEATS SANTELL AT BAY CITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—It took Joe Stecher of Nebraska, heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, less than one hour here to crush the titular ambitions of Ad Santell, Pacific Coast heavyweight champion. The Nebraska secured the first fall in thirty-eight minutes and seventeen seconds with a body scissors and a double wrist lock. The second fall came in seventeen minutes and fifty-four seconds when Santell was pinned with a double wrist lock.

Santell was outclassed throughout the bout. With the exception of a few minutes at the beginning of the match, and just before its conclusion, he was entirely on the defensive. Not once did he have the champion in jeopardy.

OMAHA BLOCK BURNS WITH $750,000 LOSS

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 23.—Fire this morning destroyed the continental block, at Fifteenth and Douglas streets, in the downtown business district, causing a loss estimated at $750,000. A high wind for a time threatened to carry the flames to the entire business district.

The Berg Clothing Company and Hartman Furniture Company buildings were completely destroyed, and every other building in the block was badly damaged.

YANKEE HEROES OF SEAS SAIL HOME RICH

BY J. W. PEGLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, Feb. 4 (by mail).—Three American sea heroes are sailing home with $25,000 and the formal thanks of a British salvage court, as their reward for one of the most courageous exploits in British maritime history. They are Bob Ferguson of San Francisco, and Tom Welch and John Smith "of the U. S. A."

By a sudden impulse they pledged themselves to stand by one another and the sea-going tug Vigilant of New York. Battling one of the fiercest gales the Atlantic has ever known the trio refused all aid and brought their doughty but badly punished little craft safe into Cardiff.

Tells Story
Ferguson told his story to the United Press as he left the salvage court hearing, a man of independent means.

"We ran into a rough patch of weather soon after leaving New York last October 13," he said. "It made us dodge into Halifax for a day but we reached St. John's on the 17th. That very afternoon we sailed again with Captain Ince and a crew of sixteen. I was second officer."

"We had dirty weather from the start. But as the days passed our coal grew lighter and we rolled more and more. Four days this lasted. Then, 800 miles off the Irish coast, Captain Ince wirelessed for help. Queenstown replied that a patrol boat was coming but she never did find us. Meanwhile we put out distress signals and sighted a vessel about two miles off. She never even hesitated."

"On Sunday, the twenty-ninth, we ran into the fiercest gale I have ever experienced in all my years of seafaring. Captain Ince was afraid we would turn turtle so he signalled the Holland-American liner Ryndam for help and gave the order to abandon ship."

"I didn't want to quit so I went below to get volunteers to save the tug. There I found the crew dressed in their shore clothes, with life preservers under their coats."

"They gave me the big laugh—thought I was kidding. I passed them up and went into the engine room. There was Welch, getting ready to leave."

"I looked him straight in the eye. 'Welch,' I said, 'you told me yesterday you were no bar-room sailor. Now's your chance to prove it.' He didn't say anything; just stuck out his hand and we shook. Then we got Smith and the three of us told the captain we were going to stick."

"The Ryndam came tumbling along. Captain Ince and the rest went off in a boat still calling us fools, and the last we saw of the liner, passengers were at her rails giving us a last cheer."

"Welch went down to the engines. Smith took care of the fires and I took the bridge. We had no food; I just chewed tobacco. At last we sighted the Scotch vessel, Flying Fox, which sent us six men to repair a breakdown in our steering gear. After that it was comparatively easy to reach Cardiff."

Ferguson made just as hard a fight for his salvage. The ship's owners wanted to give him $1000 and an inscribed gold watch and $500 to each of the seamen. Ferguson replied "Nothing doing," and fought his case in court.

He received $12,500 and Welch and Smith $6,500 each.

EXPERTS TALK BEFORE CITRUS GROWERS AT GATE CITY CONCLAVE

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 23.—Experts of national note today addressed the Citrus Fruit Growers' Convention, held here in connection with the National Orange Show.

The fruitgrowers were welcomed with an address by Joseph Ingersoll, president of the Orange Show, when they gathered in Moose hall at 9:30 a. m. Prof. D. L. Crawford of Pomona College acted as chairman. Fruitgrowers attending the convention were invited to visit the Orange Show.

Among the addresses slated for today's convention are these:

"New Light on Old Problems in Citrus Culture," Dr. H. J. Webber, director of Riverside experiment station.

"Fundamental Principles in Pruning Lemon Trees," W. H. Fleet, manager of Sespe Rancho.

"Protection Against Frost," Prof. R. S. Valle, citrus experiment station, Riverside.

"The Present Commercial Status of the avocado and Other Subtropical Fruits in California," F. O. Popence, West India Gardens.

WILL INCORPORATE TWO-HEADED MAN

COLUMBUS, N. M., Feb. 23.—A man with two heads came up among the refugees to the American border from Mexico with the returning punitive expedition.

He was found in the hills back of Chocolate pass.

A truck driver brought the report, and Lieutenant Orr acknowledged that he had given a pass to the physical wonder.

Moving picture men have arranged to photograph him, and a movement is on to incorporate him.

HISSED FOR SINGING OF WILSON AND LEAK

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Lawrence Grossmith, English comedian, was hissed in the Shubert theater after singing a stanza of a topical song which coupled President Wilson's name with the "peace leak."

The title of the song is "Perfectly Peaceful Persons" and Grossmith sings it about the middle of the second act of "Love o' Mike." The first stanza refers to Daniel and the lion's den. It was mildly applauded. Then he drew a bigger burst of applause by singing about Secretary of the Navy Daniels and grape juice.

In the third stanza Mr. Grossmith referred to the President as "Woodrow" and sang about secret notes, advance news and "pelf." This seemed to displease most of the audience. It provoked continued hissing in various parts of the orchestra.

UNDERTAKER ROUSES MAN FROM BED WHO ISN'T DEAD AT ALL

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—If the death of William Clinton of No. 215 East Forty-third street is reported many more times, Clinton threatens to provide a job for the undertaker himself, and it won't be his body, either. Four times in a month undertakers have called at his home, bringing all their paraphernalia and insisting that he was dead.

The latest occasion was when Dr. J. G. Martin of No. 16 East Thirty-sixth street sent J. Winterbottom, Inc., of No. 936 Sixth avenue, undertakers, to Clinton's house. In this case everyone's feelings were hurt—Clinton's, Dr. Martin's and James Winterbottom, Inc.

It was 4:30 in the morning when Dr. Martin called Winterbottom out of bed. The undertaker, having been informed that it was a hurry call, got an assistant out of bed and jumped into a taxicab.

On arriving at Clinton's home he found difficulty in getting a response to his ring. Finally Clinton, aroused, managed to prove that he was very much alive. He insisted that it was an outrage, and, according to the undertaker, he said many other things.

GEN. FUNSTON'S BODY ARRIVES AT BAY CITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—The body of Major-General Frederick Funston, who died suddenly Monday night at San Antonio, Texas, is scheduled to arrive in San Francisco at 3:30 this afternoon.

It will lie in state in the center of the huge rotunda of the city hall, guarded by an escort of thirty soldiers and thirty policemen. The remains will be laid to rest tomorrow morning in the National Cemetery at the Presidio, with full military honors.

Accompanying General Funston's body from San Antonio are Captain Fitzhugh Lee, aide-de-camp to the late general, two non-commissioned officers and six privates.

WOMEN IN HUFF QUIT INAUGURAL PARADE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23.—A controversy over what part women shall take in the inauguration ceremonies came to a head with an announcement by Mrs. James H. Boggs, president of the Women's Wilson union and a member of the inaugural committee, that because of a ruling barring from the inaugural parade a section of state floats being organized under her direction, she had declared "the withdrawal of women from the parade."

Robert N. Harper, chairman of the committee, replied to the announcement with the statement that Mrs. Boggs had no authority to declare such a withdrawal.

The decision to withdraw, Mrs. Boggs declared, had the endorsement of the executive board of the Wilson union, including the wives of many senators and representatives and other public officials, and would receive the backing also of millions of women throughout the country.

ATTEMPT TO BUY ALL STALLS IN PUBLIC MART IS DOWNED

Institution Will Be Run For Benefit of Citizens, Is Fact Proved

Santa Ana's public market is going to be a public market—a market open to all producers who want to cater to the vegetable consumers of Santa Ana and vicinity.

This fact was evidenced when an offer of one man to take every stall and pay the fee for each for one year in advance was turned down.

The individual who attempted to buy up the spaces sees a big future for the market and evidently believes that in time it will be one of the features of the commercial life of Santa Ana.

The industry is a city affair and will remain such. The ordinance covering the operations of the market guards against a possible monopoly, by providing that not more than one stall may be rented to any one individual.

It is quite probable the market will not open on Saturday, March 10, as originally planned. The recent cold weather has to some extent retarded the growth of vegetables and it is the general belief of those who are deeply interested in the market that produce growers will not be in position to have a full line of vegetables ready by that time. Because of this the opening may be delayed some little time.

many applications for stalls by growers who want to sell their produce through the market, but most of them have expressed the belief that Saturday, March 10, would be too early to commence the enterprise.

Growers from all parts of the county will be offered opportunity to secure stalls and it is the intention of the market master to make a personal call on many of the more prominent vegetable producers in the county. Rain of the past week has made it impossible to carry out his plans for interesting all growers.

DOROTHY PERKINS, FOR WHOM FAMED ROSE WAS NAMED, BECOMES BRIDE

She for whom the beautiful and world-famed Dorothy Perkins rose was named was married the other day at Newark, N. Y., thirty miles from Rochester.

In the Episcopal church in which the wedding was solemnized, Dorothy Perkins roses were not the least among the profusion of flowers that spread their wealth of sweet perfume.

Dorothy Perkins, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Perkins, 911 Spurgeon street, Santa Ana, became the bride of E. D. Estabrook of Germantown, Pa.

C. H. Perkins originated the Dorothy Perkins rose, as well as many other varieties of flowers, about twenty-five years ago. Today he told how he crossed the Glory of Paris rose with a wild rose found in France. With a camellia brush he transferred the pollen from one to the other, saving the resulting seeds. Out of perhaps 2500 plants springing up from these seeds he got two plants which on blooming bore the rose now known as the Dorothy Perkins and which since then has been introduced into many parts of the world.

"I received a letter from a Paris firm," Perkins said today, "stating that they planted Dorothy Perkins roses along a railway line in the Alps. When these roses were in bloom, along both sides of the railway, the observation cars were crowded, often beyond their capacity, the sight of the blooming roses was so wonderfully attractive."

STATE GETS YEAR'S FIRST SHIPMENT OF CALIFORNIA LADYBUGS

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 23.—The first shipment of California ladybugs for this year arrived today at the state insectary from the horticultural commission's field men in the Sierras. During the next few weeks some 100,000, 000 of these beneficial little insects will be sent to the state "bug-house." This season of the year is particularly favorable for collecting them.

About two-thirds of the bugs will be sent to the Imperial valley to combat destructive insects in the melon fields. The California ladybug is considered particularly effective against the cantaloupe avis.

Although it is generally recognized that the ladybugs are natural enemies of the insect pests, it is not yet known just how effective they are proving. Harry S. Smith, superintendent of the state insectary, is about to conduct an investigation in this connection. The fame of the California ladybug is spreading, Smith reports. Small shipments, for experimental purposes, have been sent to Italy, Australia and other foreign countries. A shipment was also sent to Virginia and the horticultural authorities of that state reported splendid results. California, however, does not make a practice of shipping its ladybugs to other states.

SANTA ANA'S WAY OF BOOSTING IS EXPLAINED AT LUNCHEON

Pomona Business Men Get Information On Plan to Encourage Factories

The Santa Ana plan of raising an industrial fund was presented to the business men of Pomona today by Santa Ana men who have been more or less identified with the work incident to the raising of the industrial fund.

A luncheon at the Avis Hotel in Pomona at noon gave the local men the opportunity to explain operations here. J. S. Smart, father of the movement here; George B. Shattuck, president of the Chamber of Commerce; J. P. Baumgartner, editor of the Register; A. E. Bennett, one of the organizers of the woolen mills company here, and J. C. Metzgar, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, are the local boosters who went over to Pomona.

A committee of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce was here a few weeks ago to investigate the local plan. They were so impressed with the success and methods used that they decided to get the business men of Pomona together at a luncheon and have Santa Ana men present the course pursued here.

COX'S METHOD IS CURE OF SPEEDING SAYS CITY WRITER

Under the heading, "Reintroducing Cox," the Los Angeles Express last night had the following:

It is perfectly feasible "to put a stop to the wild, murderous driving of automobiles on the highways of Southern California." Our contemporary, the Times, asserts "if the police cannot stop it, we must find somebody who can." That somebody is found. Meet Justice Cox.

The Evening Express heretofore has suggested that a school for justices and judges be established and that Justice Cox of Orange county be engaged as instructor. Justice Cox has given repeated proof of his qualifications to serve in that capacity.

The very issues of the Times which the moving appeal from which we have quoted bore a little item from Santa Ana, which we reproduce:

"This morning Justice Cox sentenced Edgar Adams, aged 21, son of a citrus-fruit grower of Orange, to ten days in jail for speeding a motorcycle 52 miles an hour. Attorney W. F. Menton made a plea for a fine instead of a jail sentence. Justice Cox said he would not break his rule for any living person, and it was his rule that any person found guilty of speeding over 50 miles an hour had to go to jail."

Please note that it is Justice Cox's rule, which he will not break "for any living person," that "any person found guilty of speeding over 50 miles an hour has to go to jail." Jail sentences, without the alternative of a fine, if applied in every case by Southern California judges having jurisdiction over speeders, would quickly cure the evil.

The chief offenders against the safety of the highways in Los Angeles are the judges themselves. We do not imply that they violate the speed laws in person, but the mistaken leniency they show to offenders who do violate them is the true cause of the dangerous conditions that now obtain. Judges treat the law-breakers with indulgence and the speed maniacs abuse the kindness that is shown them. The Times offers the suggestion that there is only one way to punish the reckless driver and that is to revoke his license. Arguing that if every habitual law-breaker were deprived of the use of his car there would be less maiming of innocent people and few accidents to report, the Times unquestionably presents a good case, but jail sentences rigidly applied, and unswervingly enforced, would have their supplemental value.

WORTH-WHILE GIRL DEFINED AT HARVARD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 23.—The "Round Table Boys," members of the graduate school at Harvard, got together recently and agreed on the "girl that's worth while" as follows:

She is attractive, graceful and healthy, but not necessarily pretty. She can dress tastefully and entertain anyone and make him feel at ease.

She can make bread as well as fudge and cake as well as rarebit.

She is appreciative of the dance and of the sports.

She is broad-minded, sympathetic, tactful, unselfish, optimistic, thrifty, of good disposition and moderate in all things.

She can stand reverses without worry.

She is gentle to children and kind to older people, especially her parents.

She has a broad education but not necessarily a college one.

She is modest and true and home-loving.

She has good social standing, is of a religious nature and is not too proud to pray.

ADD MT. WHITNEY TO NATIONAL PARK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The movement for the enlargement of Sequoia national park in California to include Mount Whitney is well under way, according to members of the California delegation who are interested in the conservation of the nation's public playgrounds.

A bill that would add Mount Whitney and the head waters of the Kern, Kings and other important rivers to the Sequoia park and to appropriate liberally for the improvement of Yosemite national park at federal expense will be introduced next autumn, California representatives declare.

The interior department, it is understood, has been inclined to look with favor on the plans of the "bigger park" propagandists.

BANDITS TREASURE SOUGHT BY NEPHEW

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 23.—Scott Younger of Tulsa, nephew of Cole and Bob Younger, early day bandits who were with Jesse and Frank James in some of their raids in the country forty years ago, is trying to locate a box said to contain $63,000 in money and treasure, and to have been buried by the James band in the vicinity of Tulsa many years ago.

Scott Younger, from the description furnished him by Cole Younger while on a visit to Tulsa shortly before his death, believes the treasure is buried in the Lost City canyon, six miles northwest of Tulsa, on the bank of the Arkansas river. Cole Younger was unable to give exact location owing to the cutting of a new road in that direction, which does not follow the cattle trail of border days.

One of the last statements of Cole Younger as he lay on his death bed some two years ago was an injunction to Scott Younger to continue search for this buried treasure until it was found.

It is said that Frank James, who died a few years ago, was anxious in his declining days to search for the fortune which lay buried near Tulsa, but ill health forbade him undertaking it.

'WITCH' STARVING AMIDST HER RICHES

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23.—Surrounded by antique jewelry, precious stones, heavy silver plated coats of medieval armor, over 2000 volumes of rare old books and deeds and mortgages worth many thousands of dollars, Miss Cecilia McGirr, aged eighty, whom the neighborhood children knew as "the witch" was found nearly dead from starvation in her home on the North Side.

Despite these evidences of wealth the woman is said by her neighbors, who never were allowed to enter her home, to have lived off of their bounty for fifteen years.

AN AMERICAN SUGAR BEET SEED INDUSTRY

European War Has Made Necessary the Raising of Beet Seed
In This Country on Large Scale—Domestic Product Is Superior to European; Can Be Still Further Improved.

Sugar-beet seed of good quality and in large quantities must be produced in the United States if the highest development of the beet sugar industry in this country is to be reached, say plant specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in an article in the forthcoming Yearbook of the Department.

The domestic beet sugar industry, in which more than $100,000,000 is now invested, was wholly dependent until the outbreak of the European War on a seed supply from Europe. Since the normal importation of seed was interfered with by hostilities, efforts have been made to grow the necessary seed in this country, but though the production from approximately 4,000 acres of beets was harvested in 1916, this was hardly more than sufficient to plant the acreage of beets required by the natural expansion of the industry. Some seed was imported with great difficulty for the 1916 planting, but several sugar factories remain idle because of the insufficient supply of seed.

No grave difficulties, it is believed, stand in the way of domestic production of high quality seed sufficient to meet the needs of this country, in practically all instances the American-grown seed has been found superior to the imported seed. This is true of seed grown under various conditions in a number of different portions of the country. The problem, in so far as the mere possible replacement of European seed by American seed is concerned, it would seem to be only a matter of the planting of greater acreages in this country. This does not, however, take into account the economic side of beet seed production nor the possibility of improving the quality of the seed. The chief reason for the dependence of America on the importation of seed in the past was the low price at which the supply could be obtained from abroad.

The studies of plant specialists of the Department of Agriculture, lead them to believe that the quality of beet seed and of the crops which the seed produce can be improved greatly by selection and plant breeding, and that as a result the cost of production of seed in this country can be reduced. At present there are in this country no distinct types of sugar beets. In many sugar beet fields throughout the country, whatever the name of the so-called variety grown, from 6 to 20 or more distinct types of beets can be found. In fact, scarcely two beets growing side by side in the same field have closely related external characters of leaf and root, and the quality of the roots varies in both sugar and purity. Equally wide variations may be found in the best seed fields, especially with reference to habit of growth of seed stalk and yield of seed. Because of this condition of affairs plant specialists take the view that the first step in the development of a permanent beet industry in this country lies in the development of true types with reference to both seed beets and seed production.

The production of beet seed requires two seasons of growth. The mature beets resulting after one season from the seed must be harvested, the leaves removed and the roots carefully stored in a dirt covering to preserve them in a dormant condition through the winter. These roots are planted at the earliest possible time the following spring and rapidly produce seed stalks from three to six feet in height. These are harvested with a sickle at the proper time and the seed carefully threshed, cleaned, and cured.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Advertisement.

COMMUNITY CO-OPERATION

That was a forcible and effective plea for community co-operation which was given by Miss Zona Gale at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon in Riverside last Friday. The author of the "Friendship Village" stories is not only a famous writer, but she has also done valuable public service in promoting the spirit of co-operation and developing civic pride. No one can read her recent stories without being strongly impressed with lessons on the value of community effort. And the Register is glad of the opportunity to give the following summary (from the Riverside Press) of her helpful suggestions made to the citizens of Riverside.

Just as the present effective prohibition propaganda differs from the old form of temperance appeal, so the present propaganda for community development differs from the efforts toward civic advance of a generation ago. The original appeal against intemperance was made on the ground of sentiment and emotion and it was not until physicians and athletic coaches and trainers began pointing out the practical harm of intemperance that the propaganda became effective. Most effective of all was the dictum of the employer. "You may drink if you like, but you cannot have a job with us if you do because we must have the best from the men who work for us. We cannot have intemperance because intemperance does not pay. 'It does not pay' became the keynote.

A generation ago civic advance was always a concession. The man who tried to save ground for parks and the councils which voted money for beautification found themselves more or less out of sympathy with the rest of the community. They were criticized and called idealists and citizens wrote letters to the papers saying, "The taxpayers protest against a few visionaries taking it upon themselves," etc. These idealists, however, were able to impress their point of view on communities, especially after people began frequently to go abroad and see how the European cities do these things. Presently we had towns awaking to the fact that their bonds were not bought or their offers of factory sites were declined because prospective investors declared their town to be "slow." Few good roads; antiquated public buildings; tumble-down railway stations, etc., and especially the failure to develop the natural resources of the town, drove investors to towns which were awake; and the awkwardness of these other towns was measured by what they were doing to attract buyers and builders, investors, and visitors.

The challenge of the factory was the most serious of all. Other things being equal, railway and water facilities, franchises and bonuses, the factory went to the town that was awake and making civic advance. Then business men and manufacturers began themselves taking the initiative in community development because they realized that it pays; so we observe the Dayton Cigar Manufacturing Company, for example, fostering and beginning many of the most important improvements in Dayton simply because it pays. We have literally hundreds of towns in which a few business concerns or individuals are taking the lead in community development, for the same reason.

A few in these towns are doing this work from which all profit. Now this is at variance with our democratic ideas in politics. We repudiate paternalism. We do not believe in the many being benefited by the few. We believe in the people benefiting themselves. But civically, we have no such scruples. The many seem willing to take all they can get from the few. Almost every community has an example of this.

What are we going to do about it? There must always be leaders, but how shall we develop the public spirit which will co-operate with these leaders? The town is a society. A society must have more than officers. It must have a recognized membership.

In Wisconsin, the state university has a bureau of community development. Towns in the state which find themselves at "sixes and sevens," with the business houses not pulling together and no get-together spirit appeal to this bureau for help. Then a man from the bureau goes to this town and calls a community mass meeting. He shows pictures of what is being done in other towns of the state. There are addresses by local men on particular efforts to be made in that town; and with a simple constitution a community is organized into a society, whose officers are some firms, the mayor and the council of the town, and the community becomes conscious of itself as the society which it essentially is.

Does this work? In Rochester, New York, where the experiment has been under way for many years, Gov. Charles E. Hughes said: "I am more interested in what you are doing than in any other improvement in the state. You are buttressing the foundations of democracy." Five years ago a community organization conference was held at Madison, Wis., where eighteen states were represented, and President Wilson, then governor, made an address in which he said: "I see in community organization the re-discovery of the constructive genius of America—citizens going to school to one another."

For any city which finds itself with problems of civic development to work out, this idea of community organization may furnish the keynote for solution. Community organization develops the "We" spirit and eliminates "They."

MONTHLY VS. WEEKLY PAYROLLS

Bills are before the legislature to compel weekly wage payments instead of monthly. A survey made in Pittsburg of the various systems of paying wages showed queer results.

It showed that men paid their wages by the month had more money in the banks than when paid oftener. The survey also proved that men paid by the month owned more homes than men paid under any other system. They owned more homes and had more money in the banks than men paid twice a month drawing the same wages. Those paid twice a month had more money on deposit and owned more homes than those who were paid off weekly. Those paid off each day at the same wages owned no homes at all and had no bank accounts to speak of. That is said to be the condition of the very poor people of Mexico, who are paid off each day. It seems the often wage earners are paid the more incentive and opportunity there is to spend.

CHRIS EVANS—HUMAN

It is pleasant to know that Chris Evans died in a hospital instead of the penitentiary. Chris was, to be sure, a criminal—a train robber and an incidental murderer—and it was right that he should have spent most of his life behind prison walls. But he was a gallant and picturesque bandit; his killings were incidents of open battles in which he risked his own life, and lost an eye and an arm. These facts do not make Chris Evans a hero, as the dime novels of his time tried to picture him, and as better literature subsequently idealized him. He was not a hero, but a criminal, and he rightly met the felon's fate. But it was the man-size, open-air kind of crime, of a rougher age. It was a stand-up fight with society, in which society was rightly the winner, and the loser rightly took the consequences. But those consequences did not include the contempt which we feel for the modern sneaking dynamiters. The open fields bred a robust variety of criminal, for whom you could have a human respect. So when, after nearly twenty years of prison life, old and crippled, he was turned out to finish the little that was left of his life in freedom, the natural human instinct was not to begrudge him this small boon.—Fresno Republican.

WITH MALICE TOWARD NONE

By Henry James

Pretense and Parade
The preparedness parades, in which many of us participated, feeling the while a fine glow of enthusiasm, were spectacular bluffs.

They indicated that there is no particular aversion to taking a few hours off from a regular job, but they did not, as supposed, have any particular meaning.
Too many Americans like to raise their voices in the declaration that the United States could lick any other nation on earth. They don't mean that if the occasion arises for putting this to test they will be on the spot.
If the regular army were suddenly required to defend this country, it could be procured by some form of conscription. It wouldn't bob up overnight, and there wouldn't be enough volunteers to suppress a cloakmakers' riot.

Six Ways to Peace
Mr. Bryan is explaining six ways to peace. They all seem good to him. Boiled down, they amount to the assertion that no coward ever will get a wallopp if he runs fast enough.

Coinage
Spurious coinage of metals is forbidden by law, but the coinage of words is untrammelled. Due to this circumstance, a very worthy firm declares itself, by the sign on the "somber vehicles," to be composed of "moraliticians." Now, as the yokel said on seeing the hippo. There ain't no such critter.

Time was when an undertaker, useful person and, on sorrowful occasions, even a personage, was content to be called an undertaker. Then he took flight to a higher plane and became a funeral director. Why not let it go at that? Although the latest change is no breach of law or of manners, it knocks a hole in the dictionary.

Sometimes a word is born to take its place full grown in the vocabulary. Witness "bulldoze" and the once familiar "dude." But "mortician" is not destined to arrive.

The Age Limit
There is a provision in Los Angeles that a street inspector must be under fifty years.
Pity the sorrows of a poor old man!

AMUSEMENTS

The West End
The big attraction at the West End Theater on Saturday, "An Enemy to the King," the Vitaphone Blue Ribbon Feature starring the most famous actor of the modern stage, E. H. Sothern, and Edith Storey, the versatile star, is Sothern's own choice of the play which he wished to make immortal.

The story, which takes place at the time of the trouble between the Catholics and the Huguenots in France while Henry III reigned, calls for a number of fencing scenes, in which Sothern participates.

Together, Sothern and Miss Storey form a most attractive combination—one that it seems a pity to lose on Sothern's retirement to private life.

Clune's Theater

William S. Hart, Triangle star, will be seen at Clune's Theater tonight in "The Gun Fighter," the latest Western bad man picture from the Thomas H. Luce studios.

"The Gun Fighter" is a story of boy's regeneration and self-sacrifice. Hart has the role of Cliff Hudspeth, known as "The Killer," a relentless individual, with something over twenty entries in a gruesome little notebook, which records the enemies he has disposed of. It is his boast, however, that he has never killed a man who did not deserve the fate meted out to him. One day, after Hudspeth and his gang had vanquished a rival clan of outlaws with considerable bloodshed, "The Killer" is greatly surprised to be taken to task by a young girl, who accuses him of being a cold-blooded murderer. In a rage he kidnaps the girl, but finding he is unable to either terrify or conciliate her, sends her home again. The great episode of the play concerns a later adventure wherein "The Killer" sacrifices his own life to save the girl from danger.

Pleasant Gathering Yesterday
With Mrs. J. E. Cope,
Music, Games Enjoyed

Mrs. J. E. Cope was the genial hostess yesterday to the members of the Just a Mere Club and despite the darkening skies and misty weather, a delightful afternoon was passed with guessing games and vocal and instrumental music by Miss Irene Shute and Mrs. A. B. Watson.

In the contests Mrs. Charles Wolfe was awarded the first prize and Mrs. E. L. Deacon the consolation.

The national colors prevailed in the attractive decorations, white lilies and white roses being the flowers adorning the home with flags floating everywhere.

The places at the dining table where a delicious two-course collation was served were marked with flags and when the bon bon snaps were pulled with the gay caps worn by the guests, the picture was a pretty one.

The members greatly regretted the absence of Mrs. J. J. Tavis, who is seriously ill.

Those attending were Meses, J. P. Browne, E. L. Deacon, George Paul, J. W. Norton, Charles Smith, A. B. Watson, Charles Wolfe and Miss Irene Shute.

ONLY ONE FLAG NOW

No more he stands between two lands,

While love blows hot and cold;

No more he weighs with trembling hands

The new faith and the old.

The past's dead things

Aside he flings;

Hark to his new-made vow:

Only one flag! Only one flag!

There's only one flag now!

O blue-eyed Hans! your choice was plain

When, with your soul your own,

You left behind the eagles twain

To hail the eagle lone.

Back flew the bars

To show the stars,

And still they light your brow.

Only one flag! Only one flag!

There's only one flag now!

You, Pat, who let the ancient hate

Bind you to newer greed,

Now to the limbo of dead fate

Your strange alliance speed.

The love that's keen

For Ireland's green

To greater love must bow.

Only one flag! Only one flag!

There's only one flag now!

Missionary Meeting of South
Methodist Church Pleasant and Instructive

The ladies of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church South held an all-day meeting Wednesday at the church.

The parlor was filled despite the inclement weather. At the morning service Mrs. S. P. Hamilton led the devotional service and Bible study. She impressed on all the great need of of intercessory prayer for the church and missionary work.

Mrs. C. W. McNaught then took charge of the mission study, the mission paper, The Voice, was her subject and her talk was both interesting and helpful.

Dinner was served in the basement, after which another treat was in store for the members. In the afternoon service, Mrs. Hume led the devotionals and Mrs. K. W. Hoy took charge of the literary meeting. Japan was her subject and she and her helpers brought out many important facts, giving much information concerning the work in that foreign field. Both services were conducted ably and spiritually. Present was a visiting minister, Rev. Corwin and wife, from South Dakota, who was called on to assist in the service and his talks were an inspiration to all.

The pastor, Rev. A. T. O'Rear, closed the morning service with an impressive and earnest prayer. He was unable to be present in the afternoon because of other duties. All regretted the absence of Mrs. O'Rear, who was detained at home on account of illness.

Informal Afternoon

Mrs. C. S. Crookshank entertained a small company of friends quite informally yesterday afternoon with finch, four tables being occupied. Those present were Meses, W. L. Bullard, Charles Embree, George Smith, A. J. Crookshank, L. A. White, Ella Campau, W. W. Hoy; Meses Celia Cotter of Los Angeles, Margaret Ore, Katherine Cubbon and Lida Crookshank and Mrs. Crookshank's mother and sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown and M. M. Lively chat was indulged in while the ladies worked and late in the afternoon, the hostesses served delicious sandwiches and coffee.

The next meeting will be a business session held at the rectory, the first Wednesday in March.

SPLENDID MEETING

Gathering of P. T. A. of Spurgeon School Pleased With Beautiful Program

The auditorium at Spurgeon school, gaily decorated with the national colors and other emblems befitting the birthday of the Father of our Country, was the scene of a most enjoyable Colonial entertainment last evening. For two or three days the children had been busily engaged selling tickets, and in spite of the inclement weather, a very large number were present. An orchestra under the direction of F. J. Haynes, with Mrs. Haynes at the piano, opened the festivities by playing a number of very pleasing selections. When the strains of "America" greeted their ears, those present, with one accord, rose to their feet.

Mrs. McCleery then said it was a happy moment for the Spurgeon school for 100 chairs had been provided for the auditorium through the kindness of the school board and other friends, aided by the Parent-Teacher Association, to all of whom she expressed thanks. She thanked the orchestra and those who were to take part in the program to follow, Miss Browning for drilling the children, the teachers for their hearty co-operation and all who had made possible the happy occasion.

The minut was beautifully presented by sweet lassies in Colonial costume, who quite captivated the audience.

Mrs. Clarkson, also in costume, followed with a charming rendition of the poem, "Old Glory." Then came the flag drill, given by young girls in white, each carrying a flag in either hand. They were warmly applauded for the pleasure they gave.

Miss Browning's artistic execution of an Hungarian interpretive was greatly enjoyed and with more delightful music by the orchestra, the program closed and the parcel post and candy tables were visited by the guests, who quickly purchased all that was offered for sale.

Announcement was made of an outdoor pageant to be given in May. Fruitade, tea, wafers and cake were served and all departed, having passed a very happy evening.

The Chemistry Research Club of the Polytechnic High school held its monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon at 4 p. m. The club was quite fortunate to have present Dr. West, who gave an exceedingly interesting and instructive talk on the "Value of Chemistry to Medicine."

Three instructive experiments were performed and reported on to the club. Two methods of making iodine from Kelp were shown by Quessie Miller, Rowena Coffee and Berkeley Davis; and Victor Berghofer demonstrated the extraction of eucalyptus oil from the leaves of the eucalyptus tree.

The following members of the club were present: Marian Buckley, Berkeley Davis, Ruth Hickox, Helen Walker, Violet Wieseman, Rowena Coffee, Karl Ninans, Phyllis Steidinger, Bernard Packard, Mary Blake, Paul Bruns, Victor Berghofer, Quessie Miller, Theodore Moyle and Elizabeth Brown. The members voted this meeting the best of the three.

Colonial Social
The Ladies' Aid Society of the United Brethren Church, corner of Third and Shelton streets, will hold a Colonial Social Friday evening, February 23. Wear Colonial costume or something suggestive of olden times.

W. C. T. U. Meeting
The Belle Rogers Union held a very interesting meeting in the Armory parlors Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. J. S. Anderson gave an instructive talk upon the three bills, which it is hoped the present state legislature will consider.

The first relatives to what is called "Community Property," which means that property acquired after marriage and not the separate property which either husband or wife possessed at the time of marriage. "Community property," representing the joint earnings of husband and wife, is now under the absolute control of the husband, except that he may not dispose of it without a valuable consideration. The wife, however, has no right to dispose of any portion of "her half"—not even to will it to her own children. The husband becomes absolute owner when the wife dies, without any process of law or formality. When the husband dies, without a will, the estate goes into the probate court for settlement, and after all expenses of settlement are paid, the wife receives her half, upon which she must pay inheritance tax.

There are grave objections to the law as it now stands, and the object of the bill under consideration is to remedy defects and still protect the husband in business matters from interference and possible financial loss through the action of a wife who was not familiar with her husband's business affairs and incapable of controlling or directing it judiciously.

The other bills related to women as jurors, and the Moran Colony. Each of these proved very interesting and at the close of the address Mrs. Anderson answered questions concerning points upon which the ladies desired more information. Mrs. Belle Rogers spoke briefly upon the importance of working for a greater membership during the fortnight set apart by the state officers for that purpose. Each member of the different unions is expected to secure one new member. In view of the work for the coming year larger numbers are required.

Mrs. Helen Cade conducted devotions, and Mrs. Grace Moesser presided at the organ.

The president, Mrs. Julia Garrison, on behalf of the union, tendered thanks to Mrs. Anderson for her helpful address. One new member was added to the roll.

The next meeting, March 6, will be the annual election of officers.

CONSTABLE PERILED
BY DISTILLATE BLAST

With a report that was heard for several blocks, a five-gallon distillate tank, being soldered by Constable Russell Coleman, exploded shortly before noon today in the shop of Dixon and Limbird, corner Third and Sycamore. Coleman was not injured and, save for the ruined tank, no damage was done.

Coleman had taken what he considered sufficient measures to assure that no distillate remained in the tank before beginning to solder. A quantity of gas remained, however, and the heat from the soldering iron caused the gas to explode.

BRAWLEY VS 300 CARS ICED LETTUCE

BRAWLEY, Feb. 23.—So great have been the lettuce shipments from this point, and so successful have been the growers in producing an excellent product selling at the highest price in the eastern markets that the industry bids fair to equal that of the cantaloupe-growing business in another year.

More than 300 cars of first-class iced and crated stock have been shipped thus far from Brawley. About half this number of cars were sent out from Heber since the beginning of the season. It is expected that 900 cars of lettuce, valued at $1000 per car, will be shipped from all points in the valley this year. The absence of shipments from Florida and Gulf Coast points has greatly helped the local markets. There are 850 acres planted to lettuce in the valley this year.

T. R. WANTED TO HEAD G. O. P. CORPORATION

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Supreme Court Justice Crompton has approved a certificate of incorporation of the newly formed Republican club of Nassau county. Former Ambassador Robert L. Bacon is president. The incorporators and directors are, besides Mr. Bacon, William Loeb, Jr., of Oyster Bay, J. B. Coles Tappan of Glen Cove, Willard D. Straight and ex-Congressman W. W. Cocks of Old Westbury; Franklin B. Lord, counsel to Governor Whitman, of Cedarhurst; Earl J. Bennett of Rosville Center, Elvin N. Edwards of Freeport and Chase Mellen of Garden City. At the office of Mr. Bacon, 14 Wall street, it was said the formation of the club had no political significance.

DEMETREL IS GREEK WRESTLING CHAMPION

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—Bill Demetrel, wrestler, today is the Greek champion. He won the mat title by a knockout. His opponent, Gus Kerveres, who also claimed the Greek championship, knocked himself out, when, after an hour and 16 minutes of the roughest grappling ever seen in the Southland, Kerveres made a bull-like rush at his opponent, and missing him, went through the ropes, struck his head on the arena, and fell unconscious in the press box. Although they refrained from hitting and gouging, both wrestlers proved themselves evenly matched in rough stuff, as they were in wrestling ability.

MARSHAL BATON AND CAP READY FOR JOFFRE

PARIS, Feb. 23.—The marshal's baton or staff that General Joffre will be privileged to carry has been the subject of discussion in Paris since the nomination was made, the first since the Third Republic was founded.

It is an ancient insignia. The Egyptians, the Greeks and the Romans, as well as the kings of France gave batons to their great military leaders as a sign of high authority. While less exalted officers wore swords, which signified that they took part in battle, the French marshals of the past carried only a short hollow rod.

Baton of Leg Length
Ancient laws have been found that specify the length to be 19 "pouces," or inches, which equals roughly 53 centimeters in modern measure. The thickness is fixed at 45 millimeters, or a little over an inch and a half. During the Bourbon period the baton was covered with royal blue velvet, dotted with fleur de lis, or the white lilies of France. Napoleon changed the lilies to bees, which were later transformed into stars and then into eagles.

It is expected that Marshal Joffre's baton will be covered with the horizon blue of the French infantry uniforms, and that it will be decorated with stars. A former court jeweler, named Helize, is supposed to have one already made, and a Paris hatter has had the forethought to make a marshal's cap for the new dignitary, but so far no photographs of either have been shown.

The baton was made hollow because it was supposed to serve as a convenient casing for the marshal's plan of battle, which he unrolled at convenient moments, and then gave his orders for movements of troops. Times have changed. Now a commander-in-chief needs a whole office building for his plans.

Swords Have Gone Out
It is also noteworthy that swords have gone out of fashion—at least on the Franco-British front. It is only the very young officers who carry their swords about Paris, but they soon learn to leave them at home. At the front swords are never seen. The officers do not lead a charge with "drawn swords" any more.

They carry a cane or riding crop or a swagger stick, a fashion adopted by the French from the English at the beginning of the war. In most trench battles the officers direct their men with a sapling or a branch of a tree cut at random in the woods where the fighting goes on. Swords, as well as the hollow batons, are antiquities

Awards at National Orange Show Announced By Judges Last Night

Orange County won several awards for exhibits at the National Orange Show at San Bernardino, taking first prize for the best four boxes of seedless grape fruit.

Other awards were:
 Feature Exhibit—Fourth, Banner and $75.

Lemons—Banner for the largest lemon.

Cluster of Grapefruit—Banner (second prize) for largest cluster.

Greatest number of varieties—Silver Cup (first prize) with 126 varieties.

The Arlington Heights Fruit Association took first prize for the best four boxes of Valencia.

The judges were Prof. J. Elliot Coit, of the University of California, Prof. D. L. Crawford of Pomona College and William Jameson of Chula Vista, and they announced the awards last night.

Etiwanda won the honors in both sweepstakes competitions, at the Seventh National Orange Show, when the judges late today completed the voluminous task of examining the fruit and announced that the Etiwanda Citrus Fruit Association was the winner of both the first prizes on the best twenty-four boxes of Washington

Navel oranges and the best twenty-four boxes of lemons.

Etiwanda won the sweepstakes in lemons last year and three years ago and Capt. J. H. Scott, head of the association, last night proudly placed two large trophies upon his splendid display of fruit. Lindsay, which won the feature exhibit first prize, captured second place in the awards on oranges and the Mutual Orange Distributors of Redlands was third. In the lemon class the C. D. Hubbard Fruit Company of Carpinteria, Santa Barbara county, winner of the 1915 lemon sweepstakes, took second prize and Lindsay third.

The awards give Southern California undisputed championship for 1917 in this state in the competition for producing the best fruit.

Many thousands attended the show yesterday and last night. The weather, which was unfavorable, showed signs of clearing. Riverside brought over about 1000 people to celebrate Washington's birthday, for it was Riverside day at the show. Pasadena folk came in a special train with the Pasadena band.

INTERESTING PAPER GIVEN, MULTIPLE PERSONALITY

The following is a summary of an exceedingly interesting subject presented before the Present Day Club at its regular meeting last Monday evening, by Rev. Perry F. Schrock, pastor of the Congregational church. The theme was "Multiple Personality" and the speaker dealt with two remarkable cases, that of Miss Beauchamp of Boston, and that of Doris Fisher who lives in California.

A feature of interest in connection with the case of Miss Beauchamp was the fact that Mrs. Schrock in the capacity of trained nurse had had personal charge of this patient while under treatment at the Boston hospital. Mrs. Schrock followed her husband's discussion with a very interesting account of her observations of this peculiar case.

Mr. Schrock called attention at the outset to the famous case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde as described by Robert Louis Stevenson, offered as a religious allegory based on St. Paul's dualism of the spirit and the flesh. But truth is stranger than fiction, and we find in actual life instances stranger than that of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, instances not only of dual personality, but as many as ten personalities alternately ruling one human body.

Dr. Morton Prince, who had charge of the case of Miss Beauchamp is an eminent physician of Boston, and it was through his careful study and treatment that the lady was finally restored to normal mental life. The full account of this case is given in a volume published by Dr. Prince entitled "The Dislocation of a Personality."

Miss Beauchamp came to Dr. Prince in 1898 suffering from nervous breakdown. She appeared to be a young woman of unusual refinement, tall, dignified and religiously inclined. Dr. Prince put her under hypnosis and then another personality appeared, and from time to time as Dr. Prince studied the case other personalities made their appearance. The doctor named these in order B-1, B-2, B-3 and on up to B-7. B-1 he called Sally. Sally was the opposite of B-1 in every particular. She was a regular imp full of tricks, uncultured and childish and delighted to torment the other personalities in every possible way. Sally did not relish being "squeezed," as she called it, back into the subconscious region under hypnosis. In the published volume Dr. Prince relates in minute detail the various experiences, rivalries, etc. in her efforts to gain control over Miss Beauchamp. A curious fact brought out was that one personality was ill while a second was well. B-1 was a physical wreck, while Sally never knew a moment's illness or weakness and rejoiced in all outdoors. She would take Miss Beauchamp on long walks and seem perfectly fresh and then as the sick personality came on deck the body would be physically exhausted.

Sally would pile all the furniture in the room onto the bed and then B-1 would have the job of replacing the furniture, only to be again thwarted by the return of Sally who would repeat the prank. These several personalities Dr. Prince named the "Beauchamp family."

The restoration came in the course of a long treatment by gradually committing "psychological murder." Under hypnosis and other methods Dr. Prince finally brought about the mental unity of the patient, by successive killing off the different personalities until the real Miss Beauchamp was left, who turned out to be B-2. Poor Sally was "squeezed" back permanently into the subconscious.

As to the psychological explanation, Dr. Prince's theory is that of a disintegrated personality. In Miss Beauchamp's case the disintegration was caused by a severe mental shock received a number of years before. Somewhat as a quantity of mercury spilled on a table breaks up into separate globules, so as a result of this shock Miss Beauchamp's personality had been temporarily broken up into separate psychological centers of activity, functioning independently. The normal unity of self-consciousness or consciousness of the identity of self as a background had been destroyed for a time. Miss Beauchamp was completely restored under the physician's treatment and is today a well woman, happily married.

The details of the case were followed with the closest attention, and many interesting questions were brought out in the discussion. Mr. Schrock in closing his talk propounded the following queries which seemed to rise naturally from such an instance: What constitutes personality? What is character? Is character purely a matter of brain association? What is the explanation of automatic speaking and writing? Are not mediums cases of multiple personalities? Is the "control" which speaks through the medium a secondary personality? And finally, as to the modern healing cults; are the persons healed by these cults those who are on the verge of a disintegration of personality and are unified by hypnotoid suggestion?

SAYS JAP LABOR FLOCKS TO CUBA

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—On the Munson line steamship Munamar, which arrived here from Antilla, Cuba, was John Roberts, of Chicago, representative of wealthy western sugar interests. He declared that Cuba has been invaded for the first time in her history by Japanese laborers. The short-cut of labor in the island republic, he said, is causing grave concern to sugar men, who could use at the present time a million men.

Recently several labor agents toured Mexico and collected several thousand men, who were sent to Cuba. They were used to the climate and once shown how to cut sugar cane proved as efficient as the natives.

Just before he left for this country, Mr. Roberts said he saw the first contingent of Japs, eighty in number, at work. They seemed to like the work and were better workmen than the Cubans and Mexicans. Laborers in Cuba are now receiving $3 a day, whereas in former years the maximum wage was 95 cents.

A Medicine for Women

For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has Relieved the Sufferings of Women.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who continues to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world.

Mrs. Kieso Cured After Seven Month's Illness.

Aurora, Ill.—"For seven long months I suffered from a female trouble, with severe pains in my back and sides until I became so weak I could hardly walk from chair to chair, and got so nervous I would jump at the slightest noise. I was entirely unfit to do my housework, I was giving up hope of ever being well, when my sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles and today I am a healthy woman able to do my own housework. I wish every suffering woman would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and find out for herself how good it is."—Mrs. KARL A. KIESO, 596 North Ave., Aurora, Ill.

Could Hardly Get Off Her Bed.

Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I want you to know the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was in such bad health from female troubles that I could hardly get off my bed. I had been doctoring for a long time and my mother said, 'I want you to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.' So I did, and it has certainly made me a well woman. I am able to do my housework and am so happy as I never expected to go around the way I do again, and I want others to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. JOSIE CORNER, 1668 Harrison Ave., Fairmount, Cincinnati, Ohio.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

SALT LAKE IS CLEARING WAY

Houses Are Being Moved From Right-of-way At Anaheim

ANAHEIM, Feb. 23.—That the Salt Lake officials consider Anaheim an important station on the line now building is evidenced by the fact that they have announced their intention of erecting a $200,000 depot here. It will be built at the corner of Atchison and Center streets where the real estate office erected some years ago by Williams Brothers now stands. The house is at present occupied by A. Baylis as a residence. The company evidently has faith in the future of Anaheim, else it would not consider building the finest depot in the county here, when a cheaper one would answer the purpose.

Activity has already begun in clearing the right of way in this city. Under the direction of J. J. Tavis, the company's Orange county representative, a force of men began some days ago removing the buildings which stand in the way. Two were removed last week and more will probably go this week. Where the houses are not disposed of to private purchasers it is said they will be moved to adjacent lots purchased by the company and offered for sale later. A row of dwellings on the west side of Atchison street, between Center and Broadway, is doomed to give way to make room for the steel rails. These houses are all new and modern, most of them being less than three years old, but they are standing in the way of business, and must move out.

The new road is going to disturb the quiet of the Mexican colony in the vicinity of the Chartres and Atchison street intersection. Perhaps nobody but the Mexicans will regret that that ancient landmark, Buzzard's Roost, is standing in the way and will have to come down. It will be razed to the ground and within a few days Buzzard's Roost will be nothing but a memory.

A committee from the board of trade, consisting of F. C. Krause, C. E. Holcomb, A. B. McCord, H. M. Adams, J. W. Duckworth, J. H. Whitaker and C. R. Prince, visited President Paul Shoup of the Pacific Electric last week and laid the matter of extending the road to Anaheim before him. Mr. Shoup stated at the present time no plans had been made to carry the road farther than Fullerton. The committee consequently returned home with no promise that the rails would be laid to this city.

ANAHEIM, Feb. 23.—Geo. C. Wents has secured the position, formerly held by E. L. Larkin, who resigned, as manager of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company here. Wents has been visiting here from the East with his sister, Mrs. H. G. Ames, for a few weeks.

San Francisco, Cal.—Some time ago I was in a nervous, run-down condition—a complete breakdown. I read an advertisement of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in a San Francisco paper, I commenced using this remedy and it was but a short time until my appetite returned, my nerves were strengthened and my general health completely restored. I certainly recommend this remedy.

Those who started the day with a backache, stiff legs, arms and muscles, and an aching head (worn out before the day began because they were in and out of bed half a dozen times at night) are appreciating the perfect rest, comfort and new strength they obtained from Doctor Pierce's An-uric Tablets. To prove that this is a certain uric acid solvent and conquers headache, kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism, if you've never used the "An-uric," cut this out and send 10 cents to Doctor Pierce for a large sample package. This will prove to you that "An-uric" is thirty-seven times more active than lithia in eliminating uric acid—the most perfect kidney and bladder corrector. If you are a sufferer, go to your best druggist and ask for a 50-cent box of "An-uric."

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL NEWS NOTES FROM ORANGE CITY

ORANGE, Feb. 23.—A pretty morning wedding yesterday united a well-known local couple, Miss Elizabeth Rilling and Mr. Emil Rodieck. The ceremony was performed at 9 o'clock by Rev. Jacob Kogler at the home of Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Chapline on South Glassell street.

Simplicity was the distinguishing feature of the affair. A group of relatives and close friends were the only witnesses, the bride and groom being attended by Miss Flora Lehmann, a cousin of the bride, and Mr. Otto Rodieck, the groom's brother. Others present were Mrs. H. Rodieck, mother of the groom, and Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Chapline. The bride wore a neat traveling suit with hat and gloves to match.

Very tasty decorations heightened the unusual natural charm of the Chapline home. A dainty wedding breakfast was served, covers being laid for eight. Afterward the bride and groom departed for a brief wedding trip.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Rilling of Mankato, Minn., but has lived in Orange for some time, being employed as bookkeeper by the S. A. V. I. Co. The groom is an enterprising young rancher.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodieck will be at home in this city after March 1.

A very delightful gathering of the P. E. O. Society took place Tuesday afternoon at the A. R. Smith home, 524 East Chapman, where Chapter F, of Orange entertained Chapters A. B. of Santa Ana, Chapter Y of Fullerton and Chapter B of Whittier.

The reception was a brilliant affair at 1 o'clock. A four-course luncheon was served, with covers for about fifty guests. Small tables were arranged about the rooms whose natural artistic beauty was cleverly blended with the Washington Day decorations. The committee in charge of this detail had used rare taste and skill in adapting their materials and arranging their colors to harmonize with the handsome interior of the home. Flowers of patriotic red, white and blue were selected.

Following the delicious luncheon, Mrs. Claude Morey sang two appropriate solos. Mrs. A. A. Bennett, president of Chapter F, then welcomed the visiting chapters with a few well-chosen remarks. To which responses were given by officers and members of the various chapters.

A quiet wedding ceremony was performed Tuesday at the home of George Laemmernann on Van Bibber avenue, where his niece, Miss Anna Morner, became the bride of J. F. Monk of this city.

Rev. Jacob Kogler performed the ceremony which was witnessed by only a few relatives and near friends. The bride and groom were attended by Miss Anna Monk and William Morner.

Mr. and Mrs. Monk will make their home in this city. They will receive many congratulations on the happy event.

MAN WHO ORIGINATED WOMEN'S SHIRT WAIST CROWN CITY VISITOR

PASADENA, Feb. 23.—The originator of the woman's shirt waist in the United States—F. W. Stearns of Bridgeport, Ct.—is a visitor in Pasadena for the winter at the Raymond. The first of these popular garments placed on the market were designed and drafted by him. His idea made him very wealthy.

Mr. Stearns has been classed as one of the benefactors of the human race since the shirt waist has been a saver of both time and money to the women. The first shirt waist designed by him buttoned in the back, but at the suggestion of a married man the garment was made to button in front. The original shirt waist was made in 1888.

"To obtain standard sizes in shirt waists I had my employees measure about 1500 women of different sizes," Mr. Stearns said. "The investigation was begun in my own factory."

HUMANE SOCIETY IS QUESTIONING THE NON-SUPPORT LAWS

Local Courts Have Had No Difficulty In Bringing Them to Time

Among the bills presented to the state legislature are a number that were introduced at the request of the State Humane Association, which declares that the laws of the state for handling worthless husbands are inadequate, and rendered void by a decision of the Appellate Court last September.

However, the superior courts of this county have had no difficulty in handling cases of non-support. Several prosecutions have been put through, one of them recently being hard fought throughout. If the law is weak, the weakness has not been apparent in local prosecutions. Non-support under the state law is felony.

"We have been proceeding successfully under the state law," said Judge Z. B. West.

A circular sent out by the State Humane Association has the following:

"According to a recent announcement of the State Humane Association, the present law in California provides no punishment for a shiftless husband who refuses to support his family. Such a man may also demand and receive a share of the earnings of his wife. This condition was brought about by a decision of the Appellate Court, last September, declaring the earnings of a wife, when applied to the maintenance of herself and children, to be community property. The result is that many families in this state are destitute and on the verge of starvation through the refusal of the husband and father to provide for them. Under present conditions an unprincipled man may put his own wife on the witness stand, say that he is providing nothing for her support, make her testify to what she is earning, and claim her testimony as absolute defense against prosecution.

"This deficiency in the law, and other fully as important faults, are corrected in bills which have been introduced in the legislature by Assemblyman Hugh J. Baldwin of San Diego. These bills are:

"Assembly Bill 616, which makes the willful abandonment of a wife or family by a husband and father able to provide for their support, punishable by a fine and imprisonment.

"Assembly Bill 617, which is an amendment to the Civil Code, providing that property owned by a husband before marriage is his separate property and that all property earned or acquired by a wife during a period of abandonment is her separate property.

"Assembly Bill 618 enables a wife to dispose of property owned before marriage, or acquired during a period of abandonment as her separate property, without consent of the husband.

"Assembly Bill 619 requires that, in order to have prosecution deferred or sentence suspended, a father or husband arrested for non-support must give bonds to the state guaranteeing that he will provide properly for his family. It also prohibits the parole of any person convicted of failure to provide until bonds are furnished guaranteeing the support of his family.

"Assembly Bill 620 relates to community property and permits a married woman to acquire separate property aside from that held in common with her husband, providing it is acquired during a period of abandonment or is conveyed to her by an instrument in writing by some other person.

"The State Humane Association asserts that it is asking for the enactment of these bills in justice to the wives and mothers of the state, and urges citizens in every community to write to their respective representatives in the Senate and Assembly, asking them to work in behalf of these measures. Copies of the bills, lists of the senators and assemblymen, and other literature will be furnished free on application to the headquarters of the association at San Francisco."

will conduct class work in first aid and nursing.

In spite of inclement weather, there was a good attendance at the first meeting, and those present felt that the Red Cross here would be a success.

Dr. John Wehrly, who has long been a representative of the Red Cross here, called the meeting to order, and appointed Mrs. A. E. Bird, J. C. Metzgar and T. E. Stephenson as a nominating committee. Attorney Walter Eden was asked to introduce the speaker, W. W. Hush, field agent of the Pacific division of the Red Cross. In his remarks Eden said that the work of the Red Cross is so well known that it hardly needed discussion. The call for organization carried with it the knowledge that the Red Cross does a world-wide relief work.

More in Detail

The field agent in his talk outlined scores of instances of the effective work of the Red Cross. He explained that it is a volunteer organization sanctioned and chartered by the government, headed by the President, controlled by a board of directors of eighteen men, five of whom are cabinet officers. The army and navy depend upon the Red Cross to do the relief work in time of war.

"It is not a sewing circle nor an organization merely for doctors and nurses," said he. "It is essentially a neutral organization. Any person may join it. Membership is not an enlistment for service."

"In the European war, the Red Cross is neutral. It has endeavored to reach into the German lines and establish a line of communication for sending in Red Cross supplies, but it has found that to be impossible. "If we should have a great battle, the supplies of the American Red Cross would last only twenty-four hours. We believe in preparedness but not in war. We want to be ready for what may come. The government wishes to have chapters in all of the cities of the United States, and each chapter may proceed to prepare bandages and secure whatever equipment it can get. You are permitted to receive gifts, but you cannot solicit or ask for donations. That is a rule of the organization, and it must be followed. You may solicit memberships. "Chapters on this coast are to be asked to make bandages and garments for use in a base hospital at Los Angeles."

Various Activities

"Various lines of class work can be organized. Suggestions and directions for that will be sent direct to your president when your chapter is issued at Washington, D. C. Life saving, first aid and nursing classes can be conducted. We work intimately with the Boy Scouts."

Some of the activities of the Red Cross in great disasters was shown. The idea is to have organizations prepared so that on instant notice volunteer doctors, nurses, assistants, bandages, stretchers, etc., can be rushed to the place needed.

The annual membership fee is $1. For $2 one gets in addition the Red Cross magazine. A contributing membership is $5, sustaining membership $10, life membership $25, patron life membership $10.

One-half of the annual membership fees remain in the local treasury, the other half going to the national organization. Of a $5 membership, $2 remains at home, and of a $10 fee $3 remains at home. The local fund may be used for local relief work.

The Santa Ana chapter as tentatively formed is empowered to secure memberships. The charter will arrive in about ten days, after which committees will be appointed, and the thorough organization of the Red Cross here will be furthered.

TRIANGLE MEET AT POLY HIGH IS POSTPONED

After giving the grey clouds of the heavens the once over, Track Coach Walter Hall and Manager Hugh Osborn decided to postpone tonight's scheduled triangular affair between Orange, Santa Ana and Huntington Beach until the fore part of next week, probably Tuesday. The track is in a wretched condition, the paths being one sea of mud and water. Even had today been balmy, the meet could not have been staged, so after a consultation it was definitely decided to set the day of the meeting for the first of the week on the local track.

Meanwhile, Poly students are indulging in that famous and harmless amusement, often known as indoor sports. Before and after school and during the noon hour, students gather in groups in the main hall and discuss everything from studies to prospects for forming a rowing club to paddle the girls from building to building. The range of conversation also hinges on baseball and track practice that is being held between showers.

About fifteen fellows in particular, beside the whole school, are praying for the rain man to go on a vacation for the next day or two at least. The reason for all this anxiety is that the baseball squad wishes to make a tour to San Pedro tomorrow to engage the

Important Pending Legislation Explained By San Francisco Chamber of Commerce

California Mediation Act

Safeguarding the Public Interests In Industrial Disputes Affecting Public Service

The California Mediation Act introduced at the present session of the legislature by Assemblyman Goetting, with the full support of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, is a measure of state-wide interest and purposes to do for California what President Wilson believes should be done for the nation with respect to mediation in strikes and lockouts on interstate railroads.

The California Mediation Bill will affect strikes and lockouts in connection with any State public utility such as railroad companies, telegraph and telephone companies, and light, heat, water and power companies.

Where a strike or a lockout affects a public utility, like a railroad, or a telegraph company, or a light or power company, not only the comfort but the material welfare of a great portion, and in some cases of all, of the public will necessarily be directly affected by a strike. The farmer who wants to ship his products to market, often products of a perishable nature, feels the effect of a railroad strike.

The whole industrial activity of the State would be affected by a strike on the telegraph or telephone companies. A power company strike might affect interurban communication or tie up industrial establishments dependent on the power guaranteed and thus affect the employment of their employees. Whole communities might go without light in case of a strike on a lighting company. In all these possible cases, the interest of the public is paramount to the interest of any employer or any set of employees.

The California Mediation Act does not deny the right to strike; it merely suspends the right during the time of a public investigation. It does not affect strikes or lockouts, except those occurring on public utilities.

The Mediation Act provides for a Board of Mediation to reconcile differences arising between employer and employees connected with State public utilities. In the event of the findings of the board not being acceptable to either party, the right to strike or lockout still remains. The act suspends the right to strike or lockout during this public investigation and report. The basic principle of the act is that public opinion must prevail, but that it should be an intelligent public opinion formed after a full knowledge of the facts.

The principles involved in this law have been tried successfully in Canada under what is there known as the "Industrial Disputes Investigation Act," which has been in force there since 1907. In a recent official report showing the operation of the Canadian Act since its adoption in March, 1907, it appears that as a result of this Act ninety per cent of the threatened strikes and lockouts have been avoided in those industries to which the Act applies. Taking one Canadian fiscal year, as an example, the average time taken to investigate and report upon a dispute referred under the Canadian Act was forty-nine days.

The American Federation of Labor, in its recent convention at Baltimore, unanimously declared its opposition to the suggestions of President Wilson with respect to compulsory mediation. It appears likely, therefore, that the representatives of organized labor will oppose the passage of the California Mediation Act at the present session of the California Legislature. The issue involved in this Mediation Act is the simple issue: Shall the people rule? or, in matters in which the public at large are vitally interested, shall the people be ruled by a class?

Before the public is subjected to the discomfort, to the loss, to the injury resulting from a strike or lockout on a public utility, they are surely entitled to know what the dispute is about, to form their opinion concerning the merits of the dispute and to bring to bear upon the settlement of that dispute the force of a carefully matured public opinion.

This in substance is what the Mediation Act will accomplish; and if the Mediation Act should fail of passage, the vital interests of the public must continue to be made subordinate to the clash of personal interests between employer and employee connected with the public utility services of the State.

Anti-Boycott Law

Prohibits Sympathetic Strikes and Secondary Boycotts

to cease dealing by concerted action. The anti-boycott bill introduced at the present session of the California legislature by Senator Ballard of Los Angeles, and supported by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, is designed to make the sympathetic strike and the secondary boycott unlawful.

There is nothing in the bill affecting the right of employees to strike or to maintain a primary boycott against their own employer, for the purpose of enforcing their demands relative to their own employment or to their own labor conditions. The secondary boycott and the sympathetic strike do not come within this exception, and therefore would be made unlawful by this act.

The Ballard Anti-Boycott bill is necessary if the State is to protect its citizens from wanton injury inflicted upon them by those who may be involved in an industrial dispute to which the citizens injured are not parties. It is for this reason that the line of distinction has been drawn between the direct strike and the sympathetic strike and the primary and secondary boycotts.

The direct strike and the primary boycott affect only the employer involved in the dispute. The secondary boycott and the sympathetic strike on the contrary tend to injure those who are not directly involved in the dispute. The primary boycott has been defined by the California Supreme Court as the right of employees either socially or by way of business, with their former employer.

The employees have the right by all legitimate means by fair publication and fair oral or written persuasion, to induce others interested in or sympathetic with their cause to withdraw their social intercourse and business patronage from this employer. This right is not sought to be interfered with.

But when the employees go further than this, and request of another that he withdraw his patronage from the former employer, and use the moral intimidation and coercion of threatening a like boycott against him if he refuse to do so, it is a case of secondary boycott. This secondary boycott has been declared illegal by the English courts, the Federal courts and by the courts of most of the States of America.

There is no justice in the use of the secondary boycott involving, as it does, strangers to the dispute and inflicting injury not only upon those against whom the secondary boycott is declared and maintained but through injury to them, often affecting the general interest of the public and causing loss to them.

The individual activities of a whole trade or of a whole community may be paralyzed through the use of the sympathetic strike or the secondary boycott, and the law today affords no relief. If the law is to maintain its belief that for every wrong there is a remedy, Senator Ballard's bill should be enacted into law.

ARMY DUCK BOUGHT FOR THEIR TENTS

The Exchange Growers Fumigation Company announces the purchase of tents for the company's fumigating outfit. For some time the growers have been interested in the efforts of the directors to secure the army duck tents, a superior grade of material, and word came that they had been successful.

The army duck, 7 and 8-ounce, tent material, was sought in preference to the double filled drill, but as the U. S. government was in the market with an option on 7,000,000 yards of the army duck, the chance of securing that material was doubtful. However, favorable word has come from the company's purchasing agents, Mellus Brothers, of Los Angeles, stating that a carload of the army duck had been secured and this would be sufficient to supply the order of the local company which calls for approximately 300 tents.

Delivery of the tents has been promised by the time that the company's supply of cyanide will arrive, which is expected to be about July 1.
